

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method of generating a composite output includes the steps of: a) capturing a live image; b) generating an electronic map; and c) generating a composite output including at least one of a live image portion corresponding to the live image captured in step a), and an electronic map portion corresponding to the electronic map generated in step b).